

The highly accurate H&K Mk.23 Taiho is Tokyo Metro's answer to curbing street violence. Two serious law enforcement concerns are addressed simultaneously with this sidearm; engagement photo coverage and post-operation recovery. The Taiho, shown with included under barrel TrueSite™ laser site and silencer, has a built in still image camera in the guild rod under the slide assembly. Each trigger pull results in a photo taken 0.50 nanoseconds prior to the shot fired and stored in each magazine's MemoryStick™ media chip.

The Taiho fires non-standard 0.43 caliber GPS enabled full metal jacketed ammunition. Non-standard ammunition has been proven to discourage street level reuse of enforcement weapons. Each bullet can be tracked individually pre and post firing. Rifling on each model, once tailored to the individual officer, will engrave the officer ID number, badge number, name, precinct, and the date on each bullet fired.

Full safe mode is offered with GerberTech's ThumbLock™ safe system. Once the safety has been depressed to the ThumbLock™ position, only the locking officer can unlock the weapon. H&K: helping pave the way to a safer street in Tokyo.

Type	Conceal.	Ammo	Mode	Damage	Weight	Avail.	Cost	Street Index
Heavy	4	16(c)	SA	9M	2.45	8/24	7,500¥	3.5

*Pistol is balanced with correction recoil systems that add a -1 target modifier to each shot and mitigate the second shot recoil penalty. Camera download requires a single or multiport docking module linked to a PC/LAN. Each magazine can hold 350 pictures and a vid-link can be connected to a tactical helmet for around-the-corner visuals. Taiho magazines cost 550¥ each and have a street index of 3.5. 0.43 caliber ammunition has the same ballistic characteristics as 0.45 ACP.

>>>>[These things are the reason I quit running Tyo. Good luck to you guys, later.

And, Riki Two-tone, if I ever see you in the Dallas area, you're a dead man.]<<<<<
- Jubei <20:50:01 - 5/10/52>

>>>>[GerberTech really must have a lot of pull with H&K, that thumblock system is all but useless when you're wearing gloves. Great idea, poorly thought-through. I've been a Metro cop for 7 years, and not once have I used this system.]<<<<<

- Barry <24:01:01 - 6/11/52>

>>>>[Does anyone know where I can get some of these forty-three's? I have been looking everywhere, and I sure as hell am not going to use the standard issue ones.]<<<<<

- Salvo <11:33:31 - 8/10/52>